

A large number of students attending the exhibition

Another creative stall at the exhibition

Very keen students

Future Minds 2009

The Future Minds, National Educational and Career Exhibition successfully concluded at the BMICH yesterday.

The exhibition focused on delivering services to those seeking higher educational qualifications by bringing together both State and private higher education providers along with the educational service sector.

Over 100 stalls represented by higher educational institutes, tertiary educational institutes and institutes offering professional qualifications participated at the Future Minds exhibition.

The exhibition was an extensive resource for school leavers, students and young professionals. Special focus was given to students who are about to complete their school education at the exhibition by the way of the "School Day" on June 19 which allowed prioritized access to students from both state and private schools around the country, fulfilling an important objective of Future Minds. The exhibition commenced last Friday.

The ACBT stall at the exhibition

Higher education consultation from an expert

A stall at the exhibition

Students interested in AAT

Pictures by Saliya Rupasinghe.

Business promotion mission to France, Latvia and Lithuania

