

Models in the making

RUWINI JAYAWARDANA
Youths vying for the titles of Mister Sri Lanka for Mister International 2010 and the Sri Lankan representatives for Best Male and Female Model 2010 took to the ramp to display their talent at a gala fashion show which was held at Hotel Inter Continental poolside recently.
 The finalists comprising 15 males and 15 females delighted the onlookers with their skills, looks and confidence. Sporting sarees, evening attire, formal as well as festive garments of their own tastes, the guys and girls made their rounds, pausing occasionally to be caught on camera by the photographers.

 The youths were trained by renowned fashion designer Brian Kerkovon and backed by Vasana Danthanarayana's R&V Entertainments. Swedish cosmetic brand Oriflame too joined in the venture to bring the talents of these enthusiastic youths to the spotlight.

 Speaking to the Daily News Kerkovon said that all the finalists display high standard qualities.
 "We are training them on many aspects related to the field these days. They took part in a press conference where they answered the questioned posed by journalists. Their personality was graded and they spoke with three judges face to face. This is all done as pre-preparations for the finals," he noted.

 The finals will be held at Galadari Hotel, Colombo, on October 5. The winners of the competition will take part in the Mister International and International Best Male and Female Models 2010 competitions which will be held in Indonesia and Spain in October and November.
