

Santastic Fair at the SLECC again

SARA PATHIRANA

Santastic Fair 2012, which commenced at the Sri Lanka Exhibition and Convention Centre (SLECC) on December 14 will end on December 23. It is being held for the 17th consecutive year. "This year's event includes 11 stalls from India and 4 from Iran. The fair is targeting 40,000 - 50,000 visitors and shoppers this year, with an average 4000 visitors per day," Rex Jayawardena, Assistant Manager, Sales, PICO Events said. The Indian stalls comprise of traditional costume jewellery, sarees, garments and sweetmeats, while this year there would be an addition of melamine products from Iran, such as tableware, chinaware, etc. With the onset of the Christmas season, this event would cater to shoppers, who would be able to purchase their needs under one roof.

